I. STATEMENT OF FACTS<sup>1/</sup>

19 Mr. Rosas-Campiz is charged in a six-count Indictment. Counts one, three, and five 20 charge Mr. Rosas-Campiz with bringing in an illegal alien for financial gain in violation of 8 21 U.S.C. § 1324(a)(2)(B)(ii), and 18 U.S.C. § 2. Counts two, four and six charge Mr. Rosas-22 Campiz with transporting an illegal alien in violation of 8 U.S.C. § 1324(a)(1)(A)(ii) and (v)(II).

23 On February 28, 2008, border patrol agents were performing “roving anti-smuggling 24 [activities] on the highways and back roads between [the] Pine Valley and Jacumba [exits]” on

 26
 27 <sup>1/</sup> This statement of facts and the facts contained in this motion are not concessions or 28 admissions. Instead, they are based primarily on a review of the discovery provided by the government. Mr. Rosas-Campiz reserves the right to challenge the accuracy of these alleged facts and in no way admits to their accuracy.

1 Interstate 8. See Bates Stamp (“BS”) 9.<sup>2/</sup> At approximately 4:50 a.m., Border Patrol Agent
 2 (“Agent”) Mark Hansen allegedly observed a 1998 white Ford Explorer (“Ford Explorer”) 3 driving westbound on Interstate 8, approaching the Crestwood Road exit. Id. According to 4 Agent Hansen, the Ford Explorer was driving just ahead of him on Interstate 8. Id. Agent 5 Hansen alleges that the Ford Explorer was traveling at a slow rate of speed on Interstate 8. Id.

6 Agent Hansen alleges that on February 17, 2008, he observed the same Ford Explorer 7 engaged in alien smuggling. Id. Although the agent alleges he and other border patrol agents 8 apprehended two alien smugglers in the Ford Explorer on February 17, 2008, as well as 19 un-9 documented people in a separate load vehicle, Mr. Rosas-Campiz was neither driving nor was 10 he a passenger in the Ford Explorer that day. Id.

11 Believing that the Ford Explorer was acting as a lookout or scout vehicle for another 12 possible load vehicle on February 28, 2008, Agent Hansen passed the Ford Explorer and 13 continued driving westbound on Interstate 8, in search of a possible load vehicle. Id. The 14 Report of Investigation (“ROI”) alleges that five minutes later and two interstate exits west of 15 the Crestwood Road exit, he observed a black Nissan Titan (“Titan”) pick-up truck, with paper 16 dealer license plates, exiting Interstate 8. Id.

17 According to Agent Hansen, the Titan pulled to the wide dirt shoulder of the road and 18 skidded to a stop at the Buckman Springs Road exit. Id. Agent Hansen alleges that before the 19 Titan came to a stop, the rear cargo lights came on, indicating to him that the doors were 20 opening. Id. Agent Hansen alleges that he saw 15 to 20 suspected undocumented people jump 21 from the cab and open bed area of the Titan and begin to run northbound into the brush. Id. As 22 the last of the passengers exited, Agent Hansen alleges he pulled up next to the Titan. Id.

23 While attempting to catch the undocumented people absconding from the Titan, Agent 24 Hansen allegedly realized he had heard the Titan’s motor still running. BS 10. Agent Hansen 25 alleges he returned to the Titan a minute later, in an effort to secure it, and observed the Ford 26 Explorer he had seen previously, stopped on the dirt shoulder of the road, directly adjacent to 27

28 <sup>2/</sup> The Bates Stamp (BS) citations refer to the pages of discovery provided by the government to defense counsel.

1 the Titan. Id. The ROI is devoid of the time between the Titan's pulling over on the side of the 2 road and the seeing of the Ford Explorer, also stopped on the side of the road.

3 Although Agent Hansen attempted to recover the driver and passenger of the Titan, 4 neither were found, arrested, nor charged in this case.

5 Agent Hansen approached the passenger's side door of the Ford Explorer. Id. He ident-6 ified himself as a border patrol agent. Id.; see also Exhibit A, "Declaration of Mr. Rosas-7 Campiz." Agent Hansen immediately took the keys out of the Ford Explorer's ignition and 8 ordered the driver, Mr. Rosas-Campiz, and his passenger, Fortino Alvarado Ortega, to produce 9 identification. See Exhibit A. In response to the agent's request, Mr. Rosas-Campiz produced 10 his driver's license. BS 10; see also Exhibit A. Although the passenger of the Ford Explorer's 11 identification card seemed counterfeit to Agent Hansen, there is no evidence suggesting that 12 Mr. Rosas-Campiz's driver's license was counterfeit. BS 10.

13 Agent Hansen asked Mr. Rosas-Campiz why he had stopped on the side of the road. Id.
14 Mr. Rosas-Campiz told the agent that he had stopped to go to the bathroom. Id; see also 15 Exhibit A. Mr. Rosas-Campiz asked the agent if he could relieve himself and Agent Hansen 16 allowed him to go. BS 10; see also Exhibit A. Although Agent Hansen believed the request to 17 relieve himself in front of a federal agent was odd, there is no evidence suggesting that 18 Mr. Rosas-Campiz did not relieve himself. In fact, Mr. Rosas-Campiz relieved himself in the 19 bushes in plain sight of Agent Hansen. See Exhibit A. Even though he was able to go to the 20 bathroom in the bushes, Mr. Rosas-Campiz did not feel free to leave because the agent still had 21 the keys to the Ford Explorer and his driver's license. Id.

22 Although Agent Hansen recovered approximately seven undocumented people from the 23 Titan, he never asked any of them to identify anyone in the Ford Explorer. BS 11. Agent 24 Hansen never asked any of the seven undocumented people whether the Ford Explorer was in-25 volved in their transportation or whether they even recognized the Ford Explorer. Id.

26 The ROI alleges that Mr. Rosas-Campiz was arrested approximately 40 minutes after 27 being first seen. Id. However, there is evidence to suggest that Mr. Rosas-Campiz was detained 28 for approximately two hours on the side of the road. See Exhibit A. During this two-hour time

1 frame, three agents were speaking to him and the passengers of the Ford Explorer. Id. One 2 agent kept questioning Mr. Rosas-Campiz for the duration of the two hours. Id. He questioned 3 Mr. Rosas-Campiz in the English language about his possible involvement regarding the Titan.
 4 Mr. Rosas-Campiz did not understand the agent very well because he does not speak very good 5 English. Id. During this two-hour time frame, Mr. Rosas-Campiz did not feel free to leave 6 because the agents still had the keys to the Ford Explorer and his driver's license. Id.

7 Mr. Rosas-Campiz was arrested and transported to a border patrol station. BS 11.
 8 Mr. Rosas-Campiz never gave the agents permission to search or move the Ford Explorer. Id.
 9 Yet, agents searched the Ford Explorer and allegedly found a crumpled up receipt in a green cup 10 inside the vehicle. Id. According to Agent Hansen, the receipt he found inside the Ford 11 Explorer was for a Motel 6 hotel room in El Cajon, California. Id. Agent Hansen allegedly 12 went to the hotel and spoke with the hotel clerk. Id. The clerk checked the records and 13 allegedly determined the room was rented to Alejandro Rosas. Id. Agent Hansen went to Room 14 119, the room allegedly rented by Alejandro Rosas, and found a man named Alberto Morales-15 Tobar. Id. According to Agent Hansen, Mr. Morales-Tobar told him that "Alejandro Rosas" 16 had rented room number 119 and was the current renter for the room Id. Mr. Morales-Tobar 17 allegedly told Agent Hansen that the night before, Mr. Rosas and Mr. Alvardo picked him up 18 and took him to the Motel 6. Id. According to Agent Hansen, Mr. Morales-Tobar told him that 19 Mr. Rosas was driving a newer black Nissan Titan when he picked Mr. Morales-Tobar up in 20 Otay Mesa, California. Id.

21 After the inquiry with Mr. Morales-Tobar, Agent Hansen asked if he was willing to come 22 to the station and make a sworn statement. BS 12. Mr. Morales-Tobar allegedly agreed to do 23 so. Id. Mr. Morales-Tobar allegedly told Agent Hansen to keep certain receipts as evidence.
 24 Id.

25 At the border patrol station, Mr. Rosas-Campiz allegedly made statements. BS 13.
 26 According to the ROI, Mr. Rosas-Campiz stated that he came to San Diego to help his boss get 27 the necessary paperwork for a vehicle and agreed to transport that vehicle to Mexico. Id. The 28 ROI further alleges that Mr. Rosas-Campiz told agents that after dropping off this vehicle in

1 Mexico, he and his boss went to the Motel 6. Id. After that, he allegedly stated he received a 2 call from his passenger, Fortino Alvarado Ortega, asking him if he could give him a ride to pick 3 up a truck. Id. Mr. Rosas-Campiz allegedly stated he agreed to do so and allegedly admitted 4 that he picked up Mr. Alvarado-Ortega and two others at the trolley station. Id.

5 Mr. Rosas-Campiz allegedly stated that after driving for a while westbound on Interstate 6 8, he decided to take the Buckman Springs Road exit to use the restroom. Id. Mr. Rosas-
 7 Campiz allegedly stated that shortly after deciding to pull over to relieve himself, he noticed a 8 truck on the side of the road that had also pulled over to the shoulder. Id.

9 II. MOTION TO COMPEL DISCOVERY

10 Defendant moves for the production of discovery pursuant to FED. R. CRIM. P. 12(b)(4) 11 and 16. This request is not limited to items the prosecutor knows of, but rather includes all 12 discovery listed below that is in the custody, control, care, or knowledge of any investigative or 13 other governmental agencies closely connected to the prosecution. See Kyles v. Whitley, 514 14 U.S. 419, 437 (1995); United States v. Bryan, 868 F.2d 1032, 1035 (9th Cir. 1989).

15 1. Defendant's Statements. The Government must reveal all written/oral 16 statements made by Defendant, regardless of whether the Government intends to make any use 17 of those statements. See FED. R. CRIM. P. 16(a)(1)(A); id. advisory committee's note (1991 18 amendments); see also United States v. Bailleaux, 685 F.2d 1105, 1113-14 (9th Cir. 1982).

19 2. Personnel Records of Government Officers Involved in the Interrogation.
 20 Defendant moves for production of all citizen complaints and other related internal affairs 21 documents involving any of the immigration officers or other law enforcement officers who were 22 involved in the investigation, arrest and interrogation of Defendant. See Pitchess v. Superior 23 Court, 11 Cal. 3d 531, 539 (1974). Because of the sensitive nature of these documents, defense 24 counsel will be unable to procure them from any other source.

25 3. Government Examination of Law Enforcement Personnel Files — Es-26 pecially the Personnel Files and All Files Pertaining to the Interrogating Officers. Defendant 27 requests that the Government examine the personnel files and any other files within its custody, 28 care or control, or which could be obtained by the government, for all testifying witnesses,

1 including testifying officers. Defendant requests the attorney for the Government review these 2 files for evidence of perjury or other similar dishonesty, or any other material relevant to 3 impeachment, or any information that is exculpatory, pursuant to its duty under United States
 4 v. Henthorn, 931 F.2d 29, 30-31 (9th Cir. 1991). The obligation to examine files arises by virtue 5 of the defense making a demand for their review. The Ninth Circuit in Henthorn remanded for 6 in camera review of the agents' files because the government failed to examine the files of 7 agents who testified at trial. This Court should therefore order the Government to review all 8 such files for all testifying witnesses and turn over any material relevant to impeachment or that 9 is exculpatory to Defendant before trial. Defendant specifically requests that the prosecutor, not 10 the law enforcement officers, review the files in this case. The duty to review the files, under 11 Henthorn, should be the prosecutor's. Only the prosecutor has the legal knowledge and ethical 12 obligations to fully comply with this request. See United States v. Jennings, 960 F.2d 1488, 13 1492 (9th Cir. 1992); see also Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U.S. 438, 437 (1995) (prosecutors have "a 14 duty to learn of any favorable evidence known to the others acting on the government's behalf 15 in the case, including the police").

16       4.     Arrest Reports, Notes and Dispatch Tapes & Radio Traffic. Defendant also 17 specifically moves for a copy of all arrest reports, notes, dispatch or any other tapes, and TECS 18 records that relate to the circumstances surrounding Defendant's arrest or any questioning. This 19 request includes any rough notes, records, reports, transcripts or other documents in which 20 Defendant's statements or any other discoverable material is contained.

21       5.     Brady Material. Defendant moves for a copy of all documents, statements, 22 agents' reports, and tangible evidence favorable to Defendant on the issue of guilt or which 23 affects the credibility of the Government's witnesses and case. Under Brady, impeachment and 24 exculpatory evidence constitutes evidence favorable to the accused. See United States v. Bagley, 25 473 U.S. 667, 676-78 (1985); United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 102-06 (1976).

26       6.     Defendant's Prior Record. Under FED. R. CRIM. P. 16(a)(1)(B), Defendant 27 specifically moves for a copy of Defendant's prior criminal record within the possession, 28

1 custody, or control of the government. Defendant specifically requests that the copy be com-2 plete and legible; faint, obscured or otherwise illegible copies of rap sheets are not acceptable.

3       7.       Any Proposed 404(b) Evidence. The government must produce evidence 4 of “other acts” under FED. R. CRIM. P. 16(a)(1)(C) and FED. R. EVID. 404(b), 609. See United 5 States v. Vega, 188 F.3d 1150, 1154 (9th Cir. 1999) (holding that Rule 404(b) “applies to all
 6 ‘other acts,’ not just bad acts”). This request includes any TECS records the Government 7 intends to introduce at trial, whether in its case-in-chief, for possible impeachment, or in 8 rebuttal. Id. In addition, under Rule 404(b), Defendant specifically requests the government 9 “provide reasonable notice in advance of trial . . . of the general nature” of any evidence the 10 government proposes to introduce under FED. R. EVID. 404(b) at trial. See id. at 1154-55.
 11 Additionally, Defendant requests that such notice be given three weeks before trial to give the 12 defense time to adequately investigate and prepare for trial.

13       8.       TECS Reports. Defendant moves for all TECS reports. Rule 404(b) 14 “applies to all ‘other acts,’ not just bad acts.” Vega, 188 F.3d at 1154; see FED. R. EVID. 404(b).

15       9.       Evidence Seized. Under Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(C), the defense moves 16 for a copy of discovery of evidence seized as a result of any search.

17       10.       Tangible Objects. Under Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(2)(C), Defendant specific-18 ally requests the opportunity to inspect and copy and test, if necessary, all documents and 19 tangible objects, including any books, papers, photographs, buildings, automobiles, or places, 20 or copies, depictions, or portions thereof which are material to the defense or intended for use 21 in the government’s case-in-chief, or were obtained from or belong to Defendant.

22       11.       Evidence of Criminal Investigation of Any Government Witness.
 23 Defendant moves for production of any evidence that any prospective witness is under 24 investigation by federal, state or local authorities for any criminal conduct.

25       12.       Jencks Act Material. Defendant moves for production in advance of trial 26 of all material, including dispatch tapes, which the Government must produce pursuant to the 27 Jencks Act, 18 U.S.C. § 3500 and FED. R. CRIM. P. 26.2. Advance production will avoid the 28 possibility of delay at the request of defendant to investigate the Jencks material. A verbal

1 acknowledgment that "rough" notes constitute an accurate account of the witness' interview is 2 sufficient for the report or notes to qualify as a statement under § 3500(e)(1). Campbell v.
 3 United States, 373 U.S. 487, 490-92 (1963).

4           13.    Expert Summaries. Defendant moves for production of written summaries 5 of all expert testimony the Government intends to present under Federal Rules of Evidence 702, 6 703 or 705 during its case-in-chief, written summaries of the bases for each expert's opinion, 7 and written summaries of the experts' qualifications. FED. R. CRIM. P. 16(a)(1)(E)-(G).

8           14.    Reports of Scientific Tests or Examinations. Under Fed. R. Crim. P.
 9 16(a)(1)(D), Defendant moves for discovery of the reports of all tests and examinations 10 conducted upon the evidence in this case, including but not limited to any fingerprint analyses 11 or chemical tests that are within the possession, custody, or control of the government, the 12 existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the 13 attorney for the government, and which are material to the preparation of the defense or which 14 are intended for use by the government as evidence-in-chief at trial.

15           15.    Residual Request. Defendant intends by this discovery motion to invoke 16 the right to discovery to the fullest extent possible under the Federal Rules of Criminal 17 Procedure and the Constitution and laws of the United States. This request specifically includes 18 all subsections of Rule 16. Defendant requests that the Government provide Defendant and his 19 attorney with the above requested material sufficiently in advance of trial to avoid unnecessary 20 delay before trial and before cross-examination.

21           III. MOTION TO PRESERVE EVIDENCE

22           Defendant specifically moves for the preservation of all dispatch tapes and any other 23 physical evidence that may be destroyed, lost, or otherwise put out of the possession, custody, 24 or care of the Government and which relates to the arrest or the events leading to the arrest in 25 this case. See Riley, 189 F.3d at 806-08. Defendant further requests that the government be 26 ordered to question all the agencies and individuals involved in the prosecution and investigation 27 of this case to determine if such evidence exists, and if it does exist to instruct those parties to 28 preserve it. This request also includes any material or percipient witness who might be deported

1 or is otherwise likely to become unavailable (e.g., undocumented aliens and transients). U.S.
 2 Customs Service requires a court order for the preservation of narcotics, and Defendant hereby 3 moves for such an order.

4 IV. MOTION TO SUPPRESS EVIDENCE

5 A. Mr. Rosas-Campiz Was Seized For Purposes of Fourth Amendment Pro- 6 tection.

7 “When a police officer makes a traffic stop, the driver of the [vehicle] is seized within 8 the meaning of the Fourth Amendment.” Brendlin v. California, ____U.S.____, 127 S.Ct. 2400, 9 2403 (2007). A person is seized by the police when the officer, ““by means of physical force 10 or show of authority,’ “terminates or restrains his freedom of movement.” Id. at 2405 (citing 11 Florida v. Bostick, 501 U.S. 429, 434 (1991). A seizure occurs if “in view of all the 12 circumstances surrounding the incident, a reasonable person would have believed that he was 13 not free to leave.” Brendlin, 127 S.Ct. at 2405 (citing United States v. Mendenhall, 446 U.S.
 14 544, 554 (1980). Subjective intent of an officer is irrelevant in ordinary Fourth Amendment 15 analysis. Id. at 2408-2409.

16 At the time Agent Hansen approached Mr. Rosas-Campiz’s passenger side door, 17 identified himself as a border patrol agent, and immediately took the keys out of the ignition, 18 Mr. Rosas-Campiz was clearly detained for purposes of Fourth Amendment protection. More-19 over, Mr. Rosas-Campiz was further detained when the agent took his driver’s license and did 20 not give it back to him. Under these set of facts, a reasonable person would not feel free to 21 leave. Therefore, the Court must determine whether Mr. Rosas-Campiz was lawfully detained, 22 and arrested on the side of the road at the Buckman Springs Road exit.

23 B. There Was No Reasonable Articulable Suspicion to Stop Mr. Rosas-Campiz 24 and His Statements and the Fruits of Any Search Should Therefore, Be 25 Suppressed.

26 “The Fourth Amendment’s prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures 27 extends to the investigatory stop of a vehicle.” United States v. Sigmond-Ballesteros, 285 F.3d 28 1117, 1121 (9th Cir. 2002); see also United States v. Brignoni-Ponce, 422 U.S. 873, 878 (1975)

1 (The Fourth Amendment “applies to all seizures of the person including seizures that involve 2 only a brief detention short of arrest”).

3       In determining whether an investigatory stop is made based on reasonable suspicion, the 4 court “must look at the ‘totality of the circumstances’ of [the] case to see whether the detaining 5 officer ha[d] a ‘particularized and objective basis’ for suspecting legal wrongdoing.” Sigmond- 6 Ballesteros, 285 F.3d at 1121; United States v. Arvizu, 534 U.S. 266 (2002); United States v.
 7 Cortez, 449 U.S. 411, 417-18 (1981); see also United States v. Rodriguez, 976 F.2d 592, 594
 8 (9th Cir. 1992), amended by 997 F.2d 1306 (9th Cir. 1993) (An officer may not detain a motorist 9 without a showing of a “particularized and objective basis for suspecting the particular person 10 stopped of criminal activity”) (internal quotation marks omitted). While the test looks to the 11 “totality of the circumstances,” the inquiry nevertheless necessitates a dual approach. First, the 12 court must determine whether there exists specific and articulable facts which, coupled with 13 reasonable inferences, would lead a reasonable, objective officer to believe criminal activity is 14 afoot. Sigmond-Ballesteros, 285 F.3d at 1121. Second, the court must determine whether those 15 facts and inferences create a sufficient “basis for suspecting the particular person stopped of 16 criminal activity.” United States v. Rodriguez, 976 F.2d 592, 595 (9th Cir. 1992) (emphasis 17 added).

18       The “reasonable suspicion” requirement means that an officer must reasonably suspect 19 that the person he or she wishes to detain is involved in suspicious activity.” United States v.
 20 Lopez-Soto, 205 F.3d 1101, 1103 (9th Cir. 2000) (emphasis added). To satisfy this burden, the 21 officer must be able to point to “specific and articulable facts which, together with objective and 22 reasonable inferences, form the basis for suspecting that the particular person detained is 23 engaged in criminal activity.” Id. at 1105.

24           1.       Location and proximity to the border.

25       The ROI states that the area Mr. Rosas-Campiz was detained is one of “many locations 26 . . . [that is a] well-known alien smuggling load-up, drop-off and checkpoint circumvention 27 area.” BS 9. However, a “location or route frequented by illegal immigrants, but also by many 28 legal residents, is not significantly probative to an assessment of reasonable suspicion.” United

1 States v. Manzo-Jurado, 457 F.3d 928, 936 (9th Cir. 2006) (citing Sigmond-Ballesteros, 285 2 F.3d at 1124) (emphasis added).

3 Interstate 8 is used by thousands of law-abiding persons. Legal residents use it as a route
 4 to legally gamble at the Viejas Casino and the Golden Acorn Casino. Lawful travelers use 5 Interstate 8 as a route to get to Julian and El Centro. Truck drivers use Interstate 8 to bring cargo 6 to and from El Centro. Attorneys use Interstate 8 to make court appearances in El Centro. The 7 fact that the route is commonly used by alien smugglers should therefore, have little, if any, 8 value in the reasonable suspicion analysis. Interstate 8 is a major interstate highway, not a dirt 9 road near the border.

10 2. There were no evasive maneuvers used to evade, hide or locate border 11 patrol vehicles.

12 There is no evidence that the Ford Explorer was attempting to evade a border patrol 13 checkpoint. See generally United States v. Montero-Camargo, 208 F.3d 1122 (finding reason-14 able suspicion where two cars with Mexicali license plates were driving in tandem; the cars 15 made U-turns on the highway instead of using an exit; after the U-turn, both cars stopped 16 together near the checkpoint in a place where agents at the checkpoint could no longer view the 17 cars; and an anonymous tip told agents that the cars in question were driving in tandem and 18 made a U-turn near the checkpoint).

19 Montero-Camargo is distinguishable from this case. Here, Agent Hansen alleges that the 20 Ford Explorer was driving slowly on the Interstate. BS 9. However, there is no indication as 21 to how slowly it was traveling. Moreover, driving slowly can hardly be equated with making 22 evasive maneuvers to try and avoid a border patrol checkpoint or try and located border patrol 23 vehicles. Although Agent Hansen alleges that there was a border patrol checkpoint west of the 24 Buckman Springs Road exit, there is no evidence that the Ford Explorer attempted to avoid the 25 checkpoint or conduct a turnaround in the middle of the Interstate. Thus, there is no 26 particularized suspicion regarding the Ford Explorer. See Montero-Camargo, 208 F.3d at 1136 27 (evasive behavior may be an appropriate factor in reasonable suspicion analysis and evasive 28

1 behavior is defined as “‘obvious attempts to evade officers’ or hide.” ) (citing Brignoni-Ponce, 2 422 U.S. at 885).

3 In Montero-Camargo, 208 F.3d at 1136-37, the court discussed three cases where evasive 4 behavior was found to be relevant in a reasonable suspicion analysis including the following: 5 (1) a suspect that took an erratic path through an airport in an attempt to avoid police; (2) after 6 seeing police, three people spoke “furtively” amongst each other and one gentleman was 7 overheard saying, “get out of here,” and one of the three men actually attempted to flee; and (3) 8 a case involving “obvious attempts to evade officers or hide.”

9 None of these factors is present in this case. Therefore, the Court should not consider the 10 Ford Explorer’s alleged slow driving.

11 3. There is no evidence of tandem driving.

12 The court in Montero-Camargo, 208 F.3d at 1139, found that tandem driving in that case 13 was a significant factor in the court’s reasonable suspicion analysis. However, in that case, the 14 court considered other circumstances surrounding the tandem driving in making that conclusion.
 15 Id. The cars in that case not only turned around together but did so in the middle of the 16 highway; the cars immediately pulled off to the side of the road together where criminal activity 17 took place, and both cars had Mexicali license plates. Id. Here, there is no evidence of tandem 18 driving between the Ford Explorer and the Titan. Agent Hansen’s mere hunch that there might 19 be a load vehicle ahead of the Ford Explorer does not amount to particularized reasonable 20 suspicion. Agent Hansen never saw the Ford Explorer and the Titan driving in tandem. Ac-21 cordingly, there was no reasonable suspicion to believe the Ford Explorer and the Titan were 22 in any way connected.

23 4. Several factors weigh in favor of a finding of a lack of reasonable suspicion.

24 Even if the Court considers the factors outlined in the ROI, it must also consider factors 25 that weigh against a finding of reasonable suspicion. See Manzo-Jurado, 457 F.3d at 938 (the 26 “totality of circumstances test takes into account both factors weighing for and against 27 reasonable suspicion.”) (citations omitted).

28

1 Agents did not have reasonable suspicion to stop and arrest Mr. Rosas-Campiz at the 2 Buckman Springs Road exit. Simply because Mr. Rosas-Campiz pulled over to the side of the 3 road to relieve himself is not enough to form an objective basis to believe Mr. Rosas-Campiz
 4 was engaged in criminal activity. Agent Hansen did not have reasonable suspicion to believe 5 that Mr. Rosas-Campiz was engaged in criminal activity, namely that he was transporting illegal 6 aliens in the United States. See Brignoni-Ponce, 422 U.S. at 881 (“When an officer’s 7 observations’ lead him reasonably to suspect a particular vehicle may contain [illegal] aliens .
 8 . . . , he may stop the [vehicle] briefly and investigate the circumstances that provoke [his] 9 suspicion[s]”). In this case, there was no reasonable suspicion to support an objective belief that 10 Mr. Rosas-Campiz was doing anything on the side of the road, other than stopping to relieve 11 himself.

12 Furthermore, Agent Hansen did not have any reason to suspect the Ford Explorer was 13 connected with the Titan. There was no tandem driving observed. Although he detained seven 14 undocumented people that absconded from the Titan, Agent Hansen never asked them to identify 15 anyone from the Ford Explorer. He never asked them whether they had seen the Ford Explorer 16 earlier in the evening.

17 Finally, the lack of tandem driving between the vehicles, as well as the lack of evasive 18 maneuvers on the part of the Ford Explorer, together with the factors addressed above, further 19 supports a finding that there was no particularized reasonable suspicion to detain the Ford 20 Explorer.

21 5. Conclusion.

22 For the foregoing reasons, Mr. Rosas-Campiz was unlawfully detained and precipitously 23 arrested.

24 V. MOTION TO SUPPRESS STATEMENTS

25 Thus, Mr. Rosas-Campiz’s statements and other fruits of the stop and arrest were made 26 as a result of an unlawful detention and should be suppressed. See generally United States v.
 27 Wong Sun, 371 U.S. 471, 487 (1963). Simply because Miranda warnings were given sometime 28 after the unlawful detention and before interrogation does not alone purge the taint of the illegal

1 detention. Brown v. Illinois, 422 U.S. 590, 601 (1975). All tangible and intangible fruits seized 2 as a result of Mr. Rosas-Campiz's unlawful detention should also be suppressed.

3 A. Assuming There Was Reasonable Suspicion to Stop Mr. Rosas-Campiz, the 4 Stop Exceeded What Was Necessary to Confirm or Dispel the Agents' 5 Suspicions.

6 Brief Terry detentions are permissible when law enforcement wishes to follow up on 7 suspected criminal activity. An officer must use "the least intrusive means reasonably available 8 to verify or dispel the officer's suspicion in a short period of time." Florida v. Royer, 460 U.S.
 9 491, 500 (1983). The Terry detention must be limited in scope to confirm or dispel the 10 justification for the stop. Terry, 392 U.S. at 29. A seizure that goes beyond Terry's limited 11 scope must be supported by probable cause in order to withstand a challenge to the 12 Constitutionality of the stop. Royer, 460 U.S. at 496.

13 Here, law enforcement dispelled any suspicions it had with regard to Mr. Rosas-Campiz 14 shortly after detaining him. After agents determined that Mr. Rosas-Campiz had stopped to 15 relieve himself and watched him relieve himself, their suspicions should have been dispelled.
 16 Furthermore, Agent Hansen had every opportunity to confirm or dispel his suspicions that the 17 Ford Explorer was somehow connected with the Titan when he detained the seven undoc-18 umented people from the Titan. He could have determined whether any of them recognized 19 Mr. Rosas-Campiz or his passengers. He also could have determined whether those people 20 recognized the Ford Explorer. Because he failed to dispel his suspicions, the two hour detention 21 exceeded the scope allowed for in Terry. Thus, Mr. Rosas-Campiz was unlawfully detained on 22 the side of the road. Probable cause did not exist to extend the Terry detention because agents 23 never confirmed or dispelled their suspicions despite having every opportunity to do so.

24 The seizure extended beyond constitutional bounds and was therefore, unlawful.
 25 Mr. Rosas-Campiz's statements should be suppressed, as well as other fruits obtained as a result 26 of the unlawfully extended detention.

27

28

1                   B.     Mr. Rosas-Campiz's Statements Were Obtained As a Result of an Unlawful 2                   Arrest and Should Be Suppressed.

3                   A Terry detention becomes a de facto arrest when it becomes so intrusive that it can no 4 longer be characterized as "a minimal intrusion designed quickly to confirm or dispel the 5 suspicions which justified the initial stop." United States v. Sharpe, 470 U.S. 675, 683-686 6 (1985). Mr. Rosas-Campiz's detention turned into a de facto arrest the instant he identified 7 himself as a border patrol agent; grabbed the keys out of the Ford Explorer's ignition and 8 demanded the driver and passenger to produce identification. Assuming there was reasonable 9 suspicion to investigate whether Mr. Rosas-Campiz was engaged in an unlawful activity, at the 10 time Agent Hansen approached Mr. Rosas-Campiz's vehicle, there was no probable cause to 11 arrest him.

12                  To arrest an individual, there must be articulable facts to believe that an offense has been 13 or is being committed by the person being arrested. Dunaway v. New York, 442 U.S. 200, 208, 14 fn. 9 (1979). Mere propinquity to criminal conduct does not give rise to probable cause to arrest 15 or to search an individual. Ybarra v. Illinois, 444 U.S. 85, 91 (1979). Probable cause must be 16 particularized to the person suspected. Id. This requirement cannot be undercut or avoided 17 simply by pointing to the fact that by coincidence, there exists probable cause to arrest another 18 person. Id.

19                  Probable cause to arrest Mr. Rosas-Campiz was lacking and his arrest was therefore, 20 unlawful. Thus, any statements Mr. Rosas-Campiz made during his interrogation should be 21 suppressed because they were a direct result of his unlawful detainment, which led to his 22 unlawful arrest. Likewise, any fruits obtained as a result of Mr. Rosas-Campiz's unlawful arrest 23 should also be suppressed because no exception to the warrant requirement exists in this case.
